DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 30-53, drawn to sustained release microgranules comprising a neutral core, an optional water-repellant layer, and an outer polymeric layer.

Group II, claim(s) 54-60, drawn to process for the preparation of sustained release microgranules.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

According to PCT Rule 13.2, unity of invention exists only when the shared or corresponding technical feature is a contribution over the prior art.

The feature considered to be the corresponding technical feature of both Groups I and II is sustained release microgranules comprising a neutral core, an optional water-repellant layer, and an outer polymeric layer. Debregas et al. (US 2004/0081691, English translation of WO 06/69414) teaches granules having a particle size of between 100 and 1600 μm comprising a neutral core coated with a layer containing at least one plant substance combined with a pharmaceutically acceptable excipient (see, e.g., abstract and entire document). The preferred embodiment of these granules may consist of said neutral core and be further coated with various outer layers of polymeric substances for different purposes, one of which is the controlled release of the plant substance (see paragraphs [0025]-[0028]). Ginkgo biloba is listed among the plants that the plant material can be derived from (see paragraph [0021]), and its use is demonstrated in Examples 4 and 5 on page 3. Therefore, the corresponding technical feature is not a contribution over the art, and the claims lack unity.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
